

Annie Tegen, MPH
Senior Program Manager

Annie Tegen is the Senior Program Manager at American Nonsmokers' Rights Foundation (ANRF). Annie provides technical assistance in support of secondhand smoke education and smokefree policy efforts. Annie received her Masters in Public Health Policy from Portland State University and her BA from the University of Wisconsin in Madison. Annie previously worked in Denver, Colorado, as the Clean Indoor Air Policy Manager for the Colorado Tobacco Education and Prevention Alliance (CTEPA). Before that, Annie was the Policy Manager at the American Lung Association in Chicago covering asthma and tobacco policy issues. At Americans for Nonsmokers' Rights she provides technical assistance and training for coalitions and public health advocates working on smokefree efforts in eighteen states across the country.

Annie spends her free time (when she has it) long-distance running. Annie and her husband Jonah, live in Seattle with their daughter Sophie, their newborn son Max, and black lab "Stella."