

Shawna Shields, MPH

LPHI- The Louisiana Campaign for Tobacco-Free Living

Shawna Shields is the Associate Director of The Louisiana Campaign for Tobacco-Free Living, within the Louisiana Public Health Institute. Shawna brings 14 years of public health experience specializing in youth development, cessation, policy and tobacco control. She received a Bachelor of Science in Social Work (BSSW) from the University of Tennessee and a Master of Public Health (MPH) from the University of Southern Mississippi. Over the last six years Shawna has worked as the Media/Training Specialist, Program Manager for the Virginia Tobacco Control Project and Director of Prevention Services with the Division of Chronic Disease Prevention and Control Virginia Department of Health.